1. Background Information

1.1 - Beneficiary Country

Malta

1.2 - NGO

Fondazzjoni Sebh

1.3 - Relevant Country Background

Malta's ESF Operational Programme for the 2014-2020 period aims to achieve inclusive growth by fostering an economy which is conducive to economic, social and territorial cohesion. The objective of the Programme, in line with Malta's targets under the Europe 2020 strategy for smart, sustainable and inclusive growth, focuses on employment, social inclusion, education and capacity building. One of the Priority Axis of OP II is Towards a more inclusive society (Priority Axis 2) for which a specific call was issued targeting NGOs and Public Entities.

Following a thorough selection process, a number of projects were selected to benefit from EU funding. These are currently during their implementation stage. The project that this contract forms part of, Deinstitutionalisation and improved life chances through research, education and training, is one of the approved projects and will receive support through this grant.

1.4 - Current State of Affairs in the Relevant Sector

This second stage of this project is that centred around out-of-home care workers and development of a training programme based on research carried out with these same workers.

These individuals working with this vulnerable group of children take on instrumental role and responsibility in shaping these children, and therefore play a vital role in their development. Research has shown that the greatest impact of residential treatment outcome was the young persons' relationship with their care workers (Grech, 2017). Leading researchers in residential care, such as Anglin (2002, 2014a), have highlighted that residential care work is extremely important, complex, and demanding. Studies on residential care-work practices are scarce, especially those focusing on how care workers intervene with children in care and their families (Harder, Knorth & Kalverboer, 2013). Considering these gaps and given that family-centred practice has been associated with improved behaviour in children (Geurts, Boddy, Noom & Knorth, 2012), this intervention will seek to explore practices of care work within the out-of-home residences run by Fondazzjoni Sebh, St Patrick's and St Joseph's.

A study carried out locally showed that most care workers at that time were not professionally trained on how to work therapeutically with adolescents (Abela & Sammut Scerri, 2003). The care workers experienced the collaborative approach adopted in the study as empowering, and acknowledged the need for further training to be more therapeutically effective with the residents (Abela & Sammut Scerri, 2003). In response to the 2003 study, the current head of care Brincat, emphasized that at the time, unlike residential care workers, the residential social workers would have been trained. A lack of systematic training was also identified within the Church Homes (Aldgate et al., 2008) because at that time they were expected to “learn on the job” (p. 7). Given this situation together with the fact that no further studies have been carried out with this population since 2003 further emphasises the pertinence of this project.

The NGO’s participating in this project acknowledge the importance of proper training, skills and competences necessary for these employees working with this vulnerable group in order to be able to provide the assistance and care these children require. Through continuous professional development programmes care workers will maintain, improve and broaden their skills, knowledge and expertise, as well as develop the required qualities for professional practice. Through such training, care workers would feel more empowered and capable of dealing with complex situations and thus will be helping their service users with the best practice methods to ensure a better quality of life. This investment will therefore contribute to the overall capacity building of these three institutions to facilitate the deinstitutionalisation of persons in residential care.
